Pappas Works Are Exhibited in Boston

Mitchel N. Pappas, well-known Hartford artist, instructor at the College, is exhibiting 21 of his oils, watercolors, and tempera at the Arts Foundation of Boston. The exhibit, which opened Monday (Dec. 11), will continue through December 12, 9 am to 4 pm, daily, except Sunday.

Subjects requiring subtlety in handling are noticeable in the show in contrast to those which display vigor and vitality. Mr. Pappas' technique shows a freshness of approach, and a preoccupation for design and inventive motifs. Watercolors, with subject matter various, will be a feature of the North Shore, and temperas, such as the presentation of the play, are included in the exhibit.

Jesters to Give Reading of "Muder in the Cathedral"

Patterson Koller has announced that the Jesters' next performance is an adaptation of Shakespeare's "Mar ruder in the Cathedral." This production, from his submittance into O. C. T., is the college's first attempt to duplicate the train-

What Is The ROTC Trying To Do? Reporter Gives the Complete Story

By Carl Holler

Within the last few years, a hus and cry has arisen from the members of the regular Air Force, and from civilians on numerous college campuses who are concerned with the growing question of the validity of R. O. T. C. training in relation to the preparation of the man as the future officer of tomorrow.

They ask, "How can an ROTC student complete the training awarded a man in six concentrated months of officers' candidate school, utilizing five of his academic period in military pursuits?" They fur ther cite the training acquired in officers' candidate school is of the twenty-four hour variety while the college man is undergoing mental training as well as military training, and hence should have a broader concept and a quicker ability for learning (Continued on page 6).

Trin President-Elect Heads Freedom Foundation Award

Another little-known activity of Trinity's many-aided President-Elect Albert C. Bierman is his work with the nationally famous Freedom Foundation.

He is chairman of the national awards jury which selected the recipients of the foundation's $100,000 awards for 1952. They will be announced on Washington's birthday, Feb. 22 at Valley Forge.

This is the fourth year the foundation has made awards for outstanding seminar, editorials, motion pictures, community programs, public addresses, publications and other forms of expression.

Campus Chest Kick-Off Tonight: Goal is $3200

A goal of $3,200 is the aim of the 1952 Campus Chest Drive as it kicks off tonight at the annual IFC Stuart Festival in the Chemistry Auditorium. Chairman of this year's campaign, Rick Henniager, announced that this goal is $200 over that of last year's, but not high considering those set by colleges of comparably size.

Last year Wellesley with 700 stu-dents gave $2,300, Williams, with an enrollment of 1,000, donated $6,000, and at Dartmouth, 1,000 students gave $6,200, or 6,50 each.

New System

This year the system of pledging will work on a different basis. Cash is still given, of course, given on the spot, but if the donor wishes to pledge a certain amount, that amount will be paid off in February rather than at regatta time.

Top brass in the military-style Chest Drive are still Skylark, with Dave Roberts, Assistant Chairman, Richard Hatfield, Secretary-Treasurer, Paul Smith, Assistant Secretary, and Kennedy who is in charge of the fraternity specials, the sororities, and Truly Benson, typing and secre-tarial work. Four Commanders, assisted by a staff of 15, Captains, and Lieutenants, are in charge of the five major college groups. They are Marlton Berdick, Fredericksen, Jack Burrill, Everson, Frederickson, Bruce Fox, Off-Campus Independents, Joe Wellenberger, On-campus Independents, Trainer, Junior Miller, Faculty and Administration. Altogether, with 170 students are working in the cause.

Organizations Aided

Nineteen different organizations will receive funds from this year's drive. The largest single amount ($500) will go to the University of Connecticut and the Scholarship for Foreign Students (Continued on page 3).

Robert Owen, Chormaster Is Well Received in Concert

Handel's "Semele" as Musical Clock and Bach's Prelude and Fugue in E-flat were two of the featured works, as Robert Owen, noted concert organist and choirmaster of Christ Church, Bronxville, N. Y. presented a festive public recital in the College Chapel last night.

This second concert in the 1952-53 Trinity musical series also included Handel's "Messiah," Bach's "Coffee Cantata," and organ pieces by Buxtehude, Pachelbel and Dialogue sur les Mixtures by Longin, Saraste, and the contemporary Trumpet by Eblingham, and Carrillon de West-

Mr. Owen, who is a graduate of the Oberlin Conservatory of Music, also teaches a course in organ performance at Wellesley College. While in France, after having been named musi-cal director at the American Cathedr-al in Paris, he studied organ with Marcel Dupre, composition with Na-da Boulanger, and did intensive work in the harpsichord with Marcelle de Lassus.
The Fetid Air.

My roommate came back from Joe's about half an hour late. He didn't climb through the back window. He didn't try to knock on the door, either. It was already open. I knew that all-too-familiar smell of an open door. Nothing seemed to be the inevitable product of materialism, materialism that reared its head. Maybe he was sober, I thought. Maybe he was getting his own bed tonight. I couldn't take another look at the way he shuffled through the hall, his eyes down on the carpet. Maybe he would feel less unrequited rage, his story of how he shirked at the Smith reception with a quiver of guilt. Maybe he would feel more driven.

My roommate smiled wistfully. I thought I would make a mental note to buy something for Joe's, something for our future drives. I was a better driver than Joe, I was always sure of it. I was going to carry on, carry on, carry on.

"Well, I was wrong. "Can you make it big?" I asked. "If you get down on your hands and knees, I'll buy you a bed and I could kill you. I'm not going to carry you again. Not after tonight." He smiled again. "Not gonna' go to bed, Genz. do something funny. Look it, ole friends. I'm gonna' kick his ass, and see how the Parker Smith comes out of it."

The Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire if he says any more.

"Saw it untrue TV down at Joe's, he giggled, sitting down on his hands. "The man said anybody could have saved his life. So I can hold out a little longer. It's a horrid terrible little cradle dance again. "Genz' also I can try, how to do it," he screamed as he barked the door.

The thought of Trinity College being ever run down with the old order, their legs behind their backs was enough to get me down from my bunk. "I can't do it, " he said, "it's too damn cold." "I'm gonna' go to bed. Gonna' get a rabbit and then I'm gonna' go to bed."

The Tripod.

A DOUBLE-BARRELED EXHORTATION

The Tripod does not wish to be continually harassing at various campus organizations, but this week we would like to direct our exhortations to the Senate and the IFC.

First, the Senate. At the beginning of the year, there was a great deal of interest in the field of Senate election plans. There was one proposed in the Senates, one in a very well thought out letter to the Trinity, and several more in the columns. At that time we expected that some action would be taken, but so far nothing has been done.

The letter for Senate elections is in May, but if we continually postpone action, who knows when we will come and gone and will have no time for change.

Anyone who wishes to ascertain our position on the election system in its entirety may consult the series that appeared in these columns in October. For there in the first place we set forth the principal points that need to be done, we have summarized all-too-briefly what we think. First, there is a need for a change. This is probably the most important of the points that sound the best would be elected. The Senate President is also the head of the Student Body, but he is elected by only thirteen Senators who do not truly represent the school. These two faults in the present system could not exist or could not last in any democratic school.

The IFC, on the other hand, is a completely different story. The IFC meets every Thursday and attempts to solve the problems that may arise. However, it is not their job to do this, we therefore summarize all-too-briefly what we think. First, there is a need for a change. This is probably the most important of the points that sound the best would be elected. The Senate President is also the head of the Student Body, but he is elected by only thirteen Senators who do not truly represent the school. These two faults in the present system could not exist or could not last in any democratic school.

We have many plans which could be installed: for instance, having both Senators and IFC elections, making the Senate and IFC the head of the Student Body; or electing a student at all times open to election, but now the old hunter had alone and ate a one at his bunk. Charlie, and the old hunter got angrier and angrier. "There is nothing you can do for me," the old hunter laughed, although Charlie, and the old hunter had angered and angered. "Aren't you cold?" "Yes, I am," said the old hunter. "So what can you do about it?"

The old hunter looked down and saw that he had no pants on and ran back into the cottage, eating the lettuce-bait that he did not notice the old hunter. This, thought the old hunter, was a help after all, because he had left him when the old hunter had started to drink beauty. "Oh yes there is," laughed Charlie, and the old hunter got angered and angered. "Aren't you cold?" "Yes, I am," said the old hunter. "So what can you do about it?"

"I can tell you to get on your pants," answered the old hunter. "And he was happy. He was happy when he thought of his successes: the high-school log-rolling derby, the frock coat he had saved money which he did not have anyway. But he was thirsty.

And he thought about the past and he was happy and he was sad. He wished he could get one last bite of lettuce before he died. The Mayor Says...
Ray Moscow

An Orchard to Coach Ray Moscow what the Trinity team will be trying to do Saturday afternoon by using his entire squad against MIT last Saturday. Although the game was a bit sleep, the fact that it was the opener for both squads somehow was somewhat of an atonement. Anyway, all the boys got a chance to play and it played itself proved interesting.

The all-all teams have been circu-tivated and Trinity has a fair representation thereon. I call my team the "All-Unmentioned" team for these boys seldom got a word of acknowledgement or praise yet they contributed a major influence in the Trinity tournament. Here is the first string: Eds: Dick Smith and Jack

Carkie; Tuckles, Dick Brick and Ship

Thatcher; Guards: Ray Moisman and

Chuck Leonard; Center: Al Young;

Baker; Russ Alston, Tom Wilt-sham, Dwight Meyer and Earl Jem-

son. This is a definitely not be essentially familiar but these are the boys who deserve mention on some "All

Team" for their efforts throughout the whole season (during the week).

Although neglected at Trinity basketball games, choosing a "two-shot"

is of less an important factor, Saturday was a string that started just after quiet and Sandy Wright's efforts to lead a cheer was so poor that they gave up after the first try—an onion, therefore, to the students in attendance were deemed unsalutary

only sparingly for their team.

I watched the swimming team work out the other day, and it looks like

Art Christ will have a fine squad. I pick Captain Bud Toole as an outstanding performer this year.

Perhaps he can alternate post

records in his specialty, the fifty-yard freestyle.

This coming Monday at the Fall boys. His name may not be especially mentioned, but he has undoubtedly

Jamboree Proceeds to Hall of Fame
As Jones, Bulkeley Win 600 Present

Jubilee Features
"Old Timer Contest"
By Jack Berman and Ed Nahas

On December 5, Trinity decided to host the Hartford Senior-Junior High Basketball Invitational, won by some 600 patrons, was played in commemoration of the 60th post-basketball and in honor of the establishment of a Basketball Hall of Fame at Springfield College.

Basketball was invented by Dr. James Naismith. He passed through the years in popular curiosity until today it is America's most popular spectator sport. Thus, it is high time that a Hall of Fame was established as the outstanding achievements of the "hoopsters" can be recorded for posterity.

In the Junior High contests, each of 8 minutes duration, Jones took the cover by defeating Northeast 9-1, and Burr 14-1. Northeast took second place honors by upsetting Burr 16-15. In the Junior High games, of 10 minutes each, Bulkeley High came out on top with 24-15 and 26-15, defeating Hartford High and Weaver respectively. In the finals, Hartford whipped Weaver 13-12 for the runner-up slot.

In general, the games were well played. However, the new rule allowing a player a second foul shot if he misses his first, made the games a little on the drawside result because of several cases of erratic foul shooting.

"First Basketball Game"
During the intermission, an amusing demonstration of the first game of basketball was put on by 18 Trinity students with "Bake" slaughter representing Dr. Naismith. Wooden hoop baskets were erected extending in from each goal, and two nine-man teams took the field. The Trinity students, attired in dress-sack sweaters and wearing painted sideburns and mustaches, a la Guy Nixson, marched out on the court. The ball was tossed in, and the brawl was on. Those who were not present can imagine what happened by picturing eighteen football and soccer players turned loose on a basketball floor with no holds barred.

An interesting incident occurred when the ball bounded into the stands. In clearing the ball out of the stands, the ball entered possession, the players charged into the crowd with utter abandon in search of the soft surface ball used to approximate the original stage.

The first goal was scored in the second period. Little Ray Moskow hooped the six-pointer of 6 feet 5 feet, 2 Leonards, and dumped the ball into the hoop. This called "Fletcher" to retrieve the ball with his head, as the baskets were tapped up bottoms side all. The game ended in a 2-1-1 tie.

Fresh Hoopsters Glitter in Root Of Mit, 76-53; Eustis Tops Scorers

Combining a glinting offensive attack with an exact defense, Trinity's Baby Bantams overwhelmed MIT's freshmen, 76 to 53. Wise Eustis and John Swift paced the Blue and Gold quintet, netting eighteen and fifteen points apiece.

The Bantams, a fast-moving squad, utilized Don Anderson and Bob Price on the backboards, giving the visiting Baystaters a few shots. MIT had little time to set up their plays and when they did shoot, their shots were hurried. Trim also dominated the floor play with Bob Teneroweiz and Jack Barton looking particularly brilliant. From the opening moments, when Jack Barton's lay-up ripped through the cords, there was little doubt as to the outcome of the contest. In the first half, Swift, Anderson, Barton and Eustis did most of the scoring as Trinity virtually ran away from the Ensigns to lead at intermission time by 46-26. Little Bob Teneroweiz, a 5 foot 8 inch cager, was all over the court during the period when he tallied on 3 field goals. In the fourth stanza Fred Booth sent in his reserve players, in which the Blue and Gold was out-scored.

Jim Benson, a sharpshooter for the squad, tallied on 5 field goals and fouls to pace the MIT attack. The box score:

When shopping for a Christmas gift, Get something that he likes. For cleaner, fresher, smoother smokes, Hold line some Lucky Strikes!

LUCKIES TASTE BETTER!
They're made better to taste cleaner, fresher, smoother!

Ask yourself this question: Why do I smoke?
You know, yourself, you smoke for enjoyment. And you get enjoyment only from the taste of a cigarette.

Lucky taste better—cleaner, fresher, smoother.

Peachy, because Lucky are made better to taste cleaner and smoother. They're made better to taste cleaner and smoother because there's a difference.

1. These cures vary from smokers to smokers.
2. Expect the same good taste from L&M to Lucky Strike.

As it is the Trinity's policy to serve all Trinity men, whatever their interests may be, we decided to enter those who enjoy the outdoor life, throw in a few Bob and Gun notes. In order really to get into the swing, we ventured into the North Woods a few weeks ago to see if there was really any thing to all this outdoor Druidry. Well, there are as many interested in intellectual pleasures, like no, (you know—Scott, Sarah Lawrence girls, and Pappy)—our advice is to stay home. We were cold, wet, uncomfortable and lost in the bargain.

Letters to Editor

that one needs to spend a tremendous amount of money to appreciate good music, however I pray that our sense of tremendousness will not be so short-lived as this low ebb. Those that urged for the name based their reasoning on the student's desire to say that he danced to the music of SO and SO at his Senior Ball. But I wonder if the man consciously wouldn't point with deeper pride to the fact that his class had established a scholarship fund for a student whose need was evidend. The allocation of the full potentiality of the dance plan is realizable in its simplest form by pointing with hollow pride to three flooting hours, but rather dedicated to a lifetime of accomplishment.

The scholarship plan is one of the many concepts in which the money could be employed, for there are many new ideas that would be valued by future students, but let us consider the scholarship as a concrete example. It would be possible for each class to donate a minimum of one thousand dollars to this fund, and in ten years it would total ten thousand dollars, and at a five percent annual interest rate this would be five hundred dollars per year, almost enough for a full scholarship.

I firmly hope that the future classes will consider this aspect of the Dance Plan and they will not be influenced by the decision of this year's class, but rather strive to employ the money in a constructive manner.

Dormart Carnival Invites Requies Invitations

Because of the micronhot of visitors from other colleges, invitations will be required at Dartmouth's Winter Carnival this year. This statement, released to the Amherst Student, has raised comment from students and administrative sources to the effect that Amherst hadn't clamped down on their own weekend guests although they've been winter, dining and lodging "any person from any college, in any style of invitation or gratefulness whatever he drops into any of our houses on any of our weekends" for the past 25 years.

Dean Wilson expressed surprise that Amherst had not acted sooner and that Amherst had not closed down on guests, etc. According to the Student, the House Management Committee was asked last year to join a college-co-op which would regulate and standardize college weekend guests, but would have had adverse practical applications at Amherst. While other colleges would have to enforce these regulations once or twice a year, Amherst would be faced with the same job every Saturday night.

Most students opinion leans to the theory that Amherst should merit some special consideration in view of her long record of "combination free-hewerry, boarding house and home-away-from-home to any and every stray Dartmouth man who comes knocking on the door."

spreading the good news and whatnot. How about doing it in a fairly normal position instead of in that leek-like crutch?"

He thought that one over for a bit. "Good idea," he said. "Le's do it. That man down at Joe's got out of it by—how did he get out of it? This way? (łoży-normal. That way? (snej-normal. Like this—oh god, I can't remember how he did do it! Please, please—don't let me go through life walking on my hands with my feet behind my neck! Try to help me!"

We tried to help him, and the boys across the entry-way tried, and the campus cup, and finnity when she seppuku at 60 am noon."

And Joe's already dead, and the boys round out the top six men on the ladder.
