MISSING THE MARK?

In reply to the letters we have received concerning the Chaplain Bray's sermon a few weeks back, we can only say the following to those men who believe you are supporting Chaplain Bray. We are in accord with the statements of the Chaplain, and recognize the accuracy of many of his criticism.

The main point brought out by our two adverse letter writers is that they do not wish us to discuss the war. In reply we said there must be some truth in the matter. They offer nothing but a sort of catch point of view.

We do not feel that it is justifiable to slam the Tripod for offering cigarettes and a letter containing an advertisement. The letter was released.

Your Letters to the Editor, Gray and Owen, have done nothing but stir up a lot of dust, and whip a more or less dead horse. You have not replied to the Chaplain’s charges of apostasy and selfishness.

DOWN BUT NOT OUT

We are disappointed to see that the I.F.C. has come to the conclusion that the rule allowing fraternity members to accept academically deficient juniors and seniors as social brothers. We feel that this is a definite step in the wrong direction for fraternities as a whole. We want to know that we are not paying attention to individual cases involved. No amount of the rationalization we have so often heard convinces us that we are in any way incorrect in our support of the repudiated Tripod.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To the Editor of the Tripod:

With all the flurry and fury of conversation caused by the offer of two cartons of cigarettes by the Tripod for a hundred dollars, isn’t it somewhat praiseworthy and praiseworthy to wish, I wish only to point out that by the action of the Tripod in giving these cigarettes, it was a violation of the Chaplain’s thesis—“student concern is basically selfish and occasional.”

Michael L. Gowing, ’59

Last week the Tripod was kind enough to call my attention to the very facts of Chaplain Brays’ sermon of April 15. In my “concern” I can only hope to win one or more cartons of cigarettes. But more important than the cigarettes is the fact that the man on the pulpit was very right in his blast at the men of Trinity. If he was wrong, then why were there not more people there to hear that sermon? I would estimate that there were not more than fifty students and graduates in that chapel at the most important service of the week on the most important day of the week.

As students at Trinity, we are afforded a very fine and advisory education, but we cannot ever expect to receive anything from that which is offered to us that may not be backed up by all of the facilities of the college. Why so few chapel, why so few applications get the attention and money, and why so little desire to improve upon those things which are weak in Trinity College?

I believe that there are too many disappointed Ivy Leaguers who dwell upon the fact that they are the elite of the American Youth and that there is nothing so sweet as to think that the fact and the idea that the college is not supported societally, athletically, or intellectually shows that there is some basic to the text of the Chaplain’s sermon.

Above and beyond that, there is a hint of blame on the college. The idea of student participation can not be brought into this letter without saying that the college has not given us the responsibility of anything to do with the college other than a few organizations such as the Senate, Molson, and the I.F.C.

We are the college, and we the students cannot expect to have a college that is any better than we are. Dick Stanson, ’56

CHEMICAL LIBRARY DISCOVERED

By L. Lassen

One day last fall a perspiring junior ran through the halls of the Chemistry building, stopping at an insignificant room on the second floor. After a moment’s hesitation, he strode into the next, small room. He whispered a few words to the young lady there. She frowned, then smiled, finally walking across the room. A few minutes later she gave him a pile of books, accompanied with a “little boy why did you put-your-fingers-in-the-Jam” look. Sheepishly he took the books, and after pondering for fifteen minutes or so—re-entered there and hurled out.

The next day our frantic lad was the proud possessor of two gallon jugs of bulbish gin that he had made with his own ancient little hands.

Where is this mysterious little room where our hero derived this magical and wondrous fluid? When the Chemistry building was constructed in 1906 allowances were made for a research library. This room now has approximately 3,000 books and 35 periodicals dealing with chemistry and its associated fields. Anyone has access to this library although it is used mostly by graduates and students for thesis work.

The library is staffed by a combination secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Patricia A. Vassie, and a pretty Mrs. Vassie said that the room is used by an average of six students a day. She went on to say that "this is pretty good considering the limited scope of the material in the library." The contents of this little known library were expertly catalogued and shelved by Head Librarian Donald B. Cingley.

Mrs. Vassie informed us that the only book in the library not concerned with some aspect of chemistry is a good Merriam-Webster Dictionary. After a probing, we were relieved to find that there are some books in the stacks that have no formulas or equations in them (e.g., "Dawn Over Zero", the story of the atom bomb of Hiroshimas). On the other hand however, there is a book called "Chemistry of Oils, Fats and Waxes". Although nothing about this is even remotely covered in any of Trin’s chem courses, as far as interest is concerned it is pretty good. The library is also pretty good considering the limited scope of the material in the library.

The library is being greatly aided by the use of a fairly new process. The periodicals that aren’t kept on micro-cards. This is a great space-saver and cuts the cost of keeping those periodicals in half. This along with other things is making use of one of the better research services around.

The room is used for one other reason that perhaps few students know about. It is used for the meetings of the Board of Trustees.

Bookstore Manager Russell Discovers Clock-Collecting Very Time-Consuming

Part of Collection Is Being Displayed

By ROB WINSLOW

Harman B. Russell, manager of the bookstore, is one of the many who have recently been drawn to the fascinating new hobby of clock collecting. He is one of the 800 members of the National Association of Clock and Watch Collectors, which was founded about 12 years ago.

One of Mr. Russell's favorites in his collection of twenty-five clocks is a New Haven product of the 1857 depression. Recently on display in the bookstore, it is a representative piece of his collection as his interest lies in early American clocks and especially those produced in Connecticut during the 19th century.

At that time clock-making was the leading Connecticut industry. The area around Forestville, Plymouth, and Bristol was the clock-making center of the world during the 1830's. At that time about 200 small enterprises were in operation there.

The clocks they made were generally cruder than those made in England, but were better timekeepers. The one on display in the bookstore is a cheap, but sturdy model that still keeps perfect time.

during the month of May. Mr. Dando will be heard for five minutes daily beginning tomorrow at 11:30 a.m.

Professor Dando has been honored in recent months for his "Behind the Vane," heard on WHTC, a program of literary discussion and readings.

Tomorrow morning's program will feature the work of Duedy and William Wordsworth and a discussion of art as a medium of expression.

Smith Siren Steers St. A.'s Entry to Soap-Box Victory

VERNON ST. DOWNS, CONN. On Saturday afternoon, April 28, 1956, thousands of race fans filled the stands along Vernon Scoursey to view the Tripped sponsored Soap-Box Derby.

Bill Pierce, famed driver of days gone by, was present at the starting line to waive the checkered sheet which sent the fans into an hilarious orgaism, and the cars into motion. The race was run off in three big heats, each of which proved to be easier than the last. The DPhi car managed to sweep the field in the first heat and past the other entries. The second heat was won by Mr. Hall, but close competition was offered by Mr. Beardsell of AEP on his Toilet Seat Speedster designed by Instant Furina of Double-deck Nach fame. Jack Litton Chosen President of Hillel

On Monday, April 25th, the Hillel Society held their annual elections. All the positions-president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer-are students majoring in pre-medicine.

Jack Litton, a sophomore from Great Neck, Long Island, was elected president. Litton, former secretary of the society, is presently secretary of the Psychology Club, and has been appointed Junior Adviser for the coming year.

The new vice-president is Leonard Wolfe, former president of the Mill Hill Society. Wolf, a New Yorker, is also a member of the Political Science Club, and an active participant in intramural activities.

Secretary is Philip Corn, a sophomore from West Hartford, Connecticut. Corn, a psychology major, is a member of the Iry, WRTC, and the Psychology Club.

The society elected Milton Israel treasurer. Israel, from Bristol, Connecticut, is also treasurer of the glee club, and a singer in the Bishop's Men.

SPORTS CAR CLUB

The final meeting of the Sports Car Club will be held on May 8, Tuesday. At the meeting, Walt Harwood will speak. Harwood is an auto racer who two weeks ago set a Thompson Raceway record in his D type jaguar. Following his talk election of officers for next year will be conducted.

Those who are interested have turned an old home in Bristol into a museum displaying several hundred of the venerable timepieces. The museum is open to the public at no charge, and a visit is recommended by Mr. Russell to those who wish to imbibe some charm of this old and beautiful art.

Moe Hurls Four-Hitter as Trin Racks Up Fifth Straight Win

The Bantam's downs Colby Saturday, 9-0, for their fifth straight victory, as Moe Drabowsky hurled a no-hit four-hitter. His teammates played errorless ball behind him.

Barrage of Runs

The Hilltoppers began the game with a barrage of runs, scoring eight in the first two innings. Six runs came across the plate in the first, on four walks, two fielder's choice, two Colby errors, and a two-run single by Moe himself.

In the second frame, singles by George Kellner, Charley Sticks, and Ray Aramini, plus a wild pick-off play by Bob Holland brought two more across the plate. Kellner topped the rack in the sixth when, after singing, he promptly stole second, third, and home. All told, Trin trounced their Ivy foes 9-0.

Case Yields Six

Wednesday against Coast Guard, George Case pitched a six-hitter on a cold and bitter day. Case also fanned seven and got two hits himself. At the end of the fourth, thanks to erratic fielding by the Coasters, the Bantams led 4-1 on one hit.

In the fifth, Coach Don Jeane's boys got going in the hit department, scoring four times on four hits, including doubles by Sticks and Captain Ron Kamah. Three runs in the eighth ended the scoring.

the First Beer Bust

OR

Why Plymouth Rooked and Rolled

Once upon a time there was a group of cats who really went out on a one way excursion canoe called the Mayflower. Now they were smart and could say that they had to go on tour because a square from Goonville who billed themselves as King James gave them the horn and they had to cut out on merry old England.

Anyway, they finally got a booking on the New World circuit in a spot called Virginia, named in honor of Elisabeth I for some reason or other. They went alone or for some reason.

This particular day some of the boys were cooling it on deck, quaffing a few tankards of brew when it was John Alden's turn to go for refill.

When he got below none other than a screen-tester named Priscilla Mollina was the lookout.

"Make with the suh for Made Shandish," says John.

"I'll chow you, Dad," says Priscilla. "There's exactly one tankard left. Speak for yourself, John." They split the tankard and John returned topside.

"Sirs, I wish to report the beer is gone.

"Natty, man!" they replied. "That beer is really gone. Give us another chorus on it!!!"

"But, you don't dig me, Sirro" said J. A., "the barrels are empty. This is the last ship."

"WHAT?!" shouted the oldies. "OUR BEER IS BUST!

Turn this raft around and make it to Plymouth Rock. We're comin' out on this date of as now!"

And that's the story of how the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth Rock instead of Virginia. And if you don't believe it you can take it up with our agent.

MORAL: You're missing the boat if you haven't tried the grog. Next time you order beer, speak for yourself and specify Budweiser. Man, it's the stuff!

Although Cassian pitched a one-hitter

The itinerary for the trip is as follows: they will leave from the chapel parking lot at precisely 8:00 a.m. On arriving in New York they have an appointment for a conference with the Soviet Delegation to the U.N. in the Soviet headquarters on Park Avenue. Proceeding from here they will have lunch in the Delegate Dining Room in the United Nations Building. In the afternoon they will have conferences with Mr. Sayegh of the Arab Delegation and Mr. Leviran of the Israeli delegation.
