St. Anthony's Statement Rebukes Trial Procedure

St. Anthony Hall, Thursday, presented a statement concerning the trial of a St. Anthony student. The statement rebuked the IFC for its lack of concern and proposed a new constitution which would be ready for the next IFC meeting.

President R. Ladd spoke to the IFC concerning the Heart Fund. He was several blocks away when he heard that the body was in an effort to canvass the city of Hartford. The IFC is an effort to get men, women, and, in answer to the freshness's plea for more spirit to work, spend the rest of the night, and the members of the freshman class, have made the challenge that the fraternity men can collect more money than they did. The details of the plan will be explained fully. The result of the survey by the representatives who were at the meeting, anyone else interested should see Bill Pierce in his room C-22.

The note that was read by David Bees of St. Anthony Hall states:

"Anthony Hall is extremely disturbed by the actions of the IFC on Monday, March 16th. Especially this presentation of the Heart Fund was supposed convicted of a ranking violation and was fined $100 and the first day of work in the fall of 1957. This was done without proper cause.

"First of all, no fraternity council member issued a written charge with the backing of his fraternity.

"Secondly, St. Anthony Hall was not informed that any action was to be taken against it before the time of the trial.

"Thirdly, St. Anthony Hall's exalted representative was providing the trial of the day and determining the facts against action against St. Anthony Hall.

"Fourthly, there is no guarantee that the entire proceedings (Continued on page 6)

Athenaeum Triumphs, Awaits Bridgeport

By JERRY BACHARACH

An imaginative program for distributing monetary aid other than by bilateral agreements was presented by Herb Mozirin and Talbot Spirkov on Monday, February 17, in a debate against the New Haven State Teachers College negative team.

Another Victory

The affirmative team of Mozirin and Spirkov presented a multistep plan which would bridge the need for direct aid by aid from direct international agreements. The New Haven negative team of Mozirin and Spirkov brought another victory in the long line of Bridgeport wins.

Mr. Davis Judges

Mr. Eugene Davis of the history department, acting as judge, gave valuable criticism to both sides on how to improve their debating. The use of Trinity professors as critics at all home debates has added prestige to the club and has served as a means of gaining valuable criticism of those who are experts in the fields of speaking and debate related to the national topic.

Practice Debates

Intra club practice debates was the key to this week's work. Direct debate was held Monday night and Tuesday evening, while a third one is planned for Thursday afternoon at 4 P.M. in Seabury 44. All students are cordially invited.

Tri: Bridgeport Next

Four afternoon teams will be debating, Monday night, March 2, against Bridgeport University. Tom Barrett and Jere Barbach will debate with Dave Lefk and Robert Prinz. The debate will be held at Bridgeport as a negative and affirmative team respectively. This will be the first intercollegiate competition for both teams.

Two Bills To Be Sponsored

Two Trinity representatives are also sponsoring bills for this legislative session. Mr. Schenck will seek adoption of "An Act Concerning the Preservation of the 'Noth Farm' in State Park." This area, which is adjacent to Farmington Avenue, has been proposed as a possible site for a new campus.

Dear Gentlemen:

There is a desperate implication in your recent editorial, Fraternity Deeds of Good, Too, to communicate an unpleasant truth by virtue of a horde deal which any individual, confronted with a similar situation, would have performed. The editors seem to have made their argument by "shifting ground" when drawing a comparison between a benevolent act on the part of fifty students and the administration's recent evasion of an scholarly average.

Unfortunately this is a common error many campuses.

There is a certain ethical principle involved. Who, after all, is responsible for the fraternity man? Is it not the fraternity? These groups, any similar clubs in professional life, have a certain set of values, if you please morals, which are mutually subscribed to. Of the more important of those subscribing is the relationship which must involve one another's welfare. With this in mind should not a fraternity deem it both an obligation and a responsibility to maintain the scholarly integrity which is so important to the advancement of those organizations.

It must be agreed that anyone who successfully completes their freshman year here has shown the capacity, by his willingness and intelligence to maintain a respectable average. Hence Mr. Hamilton's proposal for individual chauvinism, as stated in his recent letter to the editors, is definitely beneficial. It is unwise to stand functional to the building of character and should be discouraged. Fraternity, by the very nature of their organization, are willing to accept certain duties, one of the more important of which is the maintenance of scholarship.

It is not my intention to detract from a meritorious deed in any way, but rather to try to point out a fallacy which is not becoming.

Sincerely,

PETER Z. WEBSTER, '77

Dean Clarke: Dr. Jacobs Emphasize Crucial Need for a Student Center
Ted Riter

This is the third in a series of articles about the "Problem of Progress." (The preponderance printed below was written by Dean Clarke to President Jacobs and was given to the TRIPID by W. Ballard, Vice-President for Charge of Development.)

"Recently I compiled for you some figures which indicate that Trinity's expansion for the academic year 1957-58 will include accommodations for 1,000 students, with an expectation that these 1,000 will be resident students. These figures for total student population represent an increase of 100% plus World War II, while the figure for resident students represents an increase of 300% over the same period.
In the last ten years we have striven to keep up with this increase so far as physical facilities are concerned. We have built a beautiful new Library, two new dormitories, a new engineering laboratory, and, by redesigning some already existing space, we have provided additional classrooms. We have also built a badly-needed field house and a swimming pool, a gym where anything to provide equally necessary additional eating and music and space for social life and leisure time. These needs are real.
"A student center may be many things and do many things for many people. But it must serve the purpose of education, it has no place as a college campus. Here are some of the educational functions I have in mind for Trinity's proposed Student Center:
"1) It can serve as a center for meetings where students can discuss with Department heads the major fields in which they might want to concentrate.
"2) It can assist significantly in the intellectual growth of the student and in his aesthetic and cultural development by offering facilities for reading, plays, motion pictures, concerts, record houses, art exhibits and through a book store and facilities for the College and social groups and clubs.
"3) It can provide those enclaves and snack shop will provide opportunities for students to study with their teachers, to talk over other members of the faculty, and to get to know their fellow students. They can also be a social meeting place, a center will encourage a deeper life of the mind and new interests.
"4) Gym and ball room will provide health activity in leisure time and for social activity, thereby the questions of how much I do the necessity of how much I do the necessity of healthy recreation at downtown clubs or hotels.
"5) By bringing together many college activities the center will help to develop student interest in these areas, and will encourage the development of leadership and administrative skills.
"The very existence of the center will imbue the students with an understanding of their responsibility and needs and responsibilities. Thus the students will be encouraged to serve others—surely one of the major aims of education.
"Just by providing a place to relax, we can provide an environment that can be an educational function. For too often we treat our students as "doing something else." We must think of that aspect of recreation which lies in the renewal and refreshing of the spirit, mind and body through a student's doing nothing but resting. Hope there will always be a place where our students can comfortably, though perhaps unexpectedly, spread. As the poet William Davies wrote: "need time to stand and stare.
"All that I have written deals with individual benefits to be derived from the student center. Let us bring them together by saying that it is through this center that the student can develop his natural physical, social and physical and social and physical and social and physical needs and needs and needs and needs and needs.
"And in this sense it prepares the student to face the world of his own time. In the lounge the balance is with the friction of discussion will plane away the growth of misunderstanding and increase its emphasis. In the game-room the struggling C-student may find himself the beneficiary of the Hollister Ruperta room mate. There is provided for an outlet for new ideas, for the urge of young men to assert themselves, and there is offered companionship, a chance for self-discipline, and, in apparently rules of play and fairness, a chance for recognition.
"It is through the social center that the theory and vicarious experience of the student room is balanced and made fruitful by contact with living reality. The idealized concept of man is based on good and reasonable standards. The social functions of society, neatness of spirit, amiability of mind and weakness of mind are all drawn together.
"And the game room and ball room will provide health activity in leisure time and for social activity, thereby the questions of how much I do can be discussed at downtown clubs or hotels.

The paper was started by the Freshman Executive Council and Mac Cost. Dave Leod, and Ted Riter were appointed as editors.

The publication is the first of its kind at Trinity, and has already been encouraged by students and administration.

Frosh to Face Big Bad Brown
On Ived Rhode Island Court

BY JIM CRYSTAL

TOMORROW the Frosh basketball team will travel up to Providence to encounter the Brown boys. On Sat-day they will play downtown to New London to play the Coast Guard A.V. It will take wins in both games to tie the record of last year’s squad.

Of the two teams, Coast Guard is definitely the weaker as it lost to Nicholls Justice by 22 points; the boys

Bantam have beaten Nicholls last Tuesday. The Frosh were beaten by the Wesleyan freshmen in a game in which Trin trailed most of the way. The team drew to within one point following a halftime deficit of ten points, but they ran out of gas and Wesleyan pulled ahead to win. High scorer was Ken Lyons with 19.

Scharf, Segur in Garden

TWO-MILES: Bob Scharf and Mike Scharf for the Trin squads did everything but lie down Saturday night to compete in the ICA track meet.

The two-year-round runners will face the famed college distance men in the East and in the world of Coach Karl Kurch, “it will be good experience and a chance to see some excellent performers.”

THE TRINITY TRIPOD

Swimmers Wind Up Year at Wesleyan

BY BILL McGUIII

WESLEYAN WILL SERVE as host to the swimming team this Friday as the outdoor season comes to a close.

Going into the meet Art Christ’s charges will be sporting a 4-5-1 record; no matter what happens Friday, it figures to be a battle to the wire much like the Union meet last weekend.

The Cardinals have a strong well-balanced team headed by dashboard Morgan in the 100 and 100 freestyle; Scharf, who can swim just about anything; Kel in the backstroke; Scharf, who can swim just about anything; Kel in the backstroke; and Mars (the breaststroke). Also available is a strong second style relay team of Bob, Spring, Morgan, and Scharf.

The Union meet was a wing-ding affair that went all the way to the final relay for the decision, the Bantams winning through 44.4. Actually underdog in the meet, the hosts now are the portrait of bad things when they lost the opening relay which they had figured to win, but the unexpected turn of events saved the day. Wins by Larry Storch in the 220 and Walt Shannon in the 100 put the Bantams right back in the meet. With every point making a difference, the two teams went neck and neck to the end when the relay of Shannon, Bill Johnson, Fred Finke, and Bill Mannion won the day.

All-Star Team

DELTA PHI and Phi Kappa Psi, champions of their respective interfraternity basketball leagues, placed two men each on the Tripod all-star team.

The squads were chosen by members of various National and American League teams, in an all-opponent poll conducted by this paper.

Editor Views Stock Market. Sees Fundamentals. One of the best pieces of advice that a wise man can give to his children is this: "If you want to know where your money is going to be in the future, look at the past." Mr. A. W. C. Smith, editor of the New York Times, has given us a vivid illustration of the accuracy of this statement in his recent column on the stock market. He pointed out that the prices of stocks and bonds are determined by the economic conditions of the country, and that these conditions are influenced by the policies of government, the actions of business, and the reactions of the public. Mr. Smith further emphasized that the future of the stock market is dependent on the ability of the country to maintain a sound financial system. He warned that any attempt to undermine this system would result in a collapse of the entire financial structure of the country.

St. A's . . .

"On those grounds, St. Anthony hall submits that the actions leveled against it on Monday, Feb. 18 are unfounded and void.

"St. Anthony Hall's prime concern is the structure of the IFC. We feel that this organization must be the greatest possible strength in order to cope with the growing problems which the fraternity system faces everywhere.

"Needless to say, we were shocked to find that the IFC of Trinity College had lacked a written constitution, and consequently a basis for its authority. It is necessary that a complete constitution be drawn up immediately. This constitution must be ratified by all the members of the council. It would be the basis for the authority of the council in all future actions.

"The IFC must remember that it exists to help fraternity and the fraternity system in general. In its present weak form, the IFC can not possibly fulfill its purpose."

"St. Anthony Hall desires a strong IFC, but is unable to comply with the council's decisions as the council is now organized. We hope this proclamation will serve to inspire the IFC to remedy its ineffective statutes."

Sincerely,

The Brothers of St. Anthony Hall
