Three Part Lecture To Outline Careers in Fields of Math

A three-part lecture, the first in a series on careers in mathematics, was delivered Monday afternoon in Broida 214. The participants were Mr. Charles Robert Finley, a school teacher, both curricular and extracurricular, and the preparatory school's students in grades 8-12. He stated existing opportunities of an increased number of new teachers each year.

Although he is now teaching mathematics on a daily basis at Harvard in the field of mathematics, he pointed out the great difference between high and college teaching and then discussed the need for those who may be interested in a career of this nature to place more emphasis on ideas and less on drill.

Mr. Stewart, an Assistant Professor of Mathematics here, started his formal teaching career while still an undergraduate at Washington and Jefferson. He has been at Trinity for seven years. He drew on an example of a student and pointed out why he likes to talk about the subject.

In a question and answer session following the lecture, Mr. Freedman, Associate Professor of Education, was called on to outline high school mathematics. He also mentioned the improving salary situation.

There will be two more lectures in this series, the next dealing with the arithmetical field, the last with mathematics in industry.

Simpson acknowledged that youth is a state that is not static but is a living, breathing, aging entity of an older generation, but he maintained direction to the rebellion. "Enterprising, not educational, but it should be wholesome," Dr. Simpson said.

The coming of the era of the spiritual beginnings of the birth of the voice of the young people, and the rebellion against their parents, is a natural and healthy stage in the development of the young generation. It is not true of the unfortunate male.

Dr. Simpson said, "After the wakening and the outcome of the second generation, the young generation come to the light of youth. They will be a force to be reckoned with in the future."
Campus Gods on Trial?

Prevailing rushing procedures intersect a profound note of immaturity and mutual distrust among fraternities.

Although freshmen and upperclassmen from social interest groups on their own campus, the common ground cannot be found, one part, a base injustice to all parties concerned.

The only solution to the problem plaguing our college is to have consistent and frequent intercourse between freshmen and all other members of the student body, at any time or place on the campus. Trinity is a college, founded upon and steeped in liberal traditions; and we have no room for segregation upon these 84 acres.

Fraternities are looking too much upon the number of members and not at the quality and character of those there. They are too busy upon saying what one cannot do, rather than what one can do. They spend too much time discouraging that encouragement is overlooked.

Moreover, who is the fraternity system to regulate the power of the freedom of association?

The Ball Is Rolling

At last we have progressed to report from the 1st Monday of March, last, having voted on the Tri pod suggestion of raising the fine. A 10 to 20 fines have been taken up, as well as 7 houses for and 3 houses against. This is a pleasant sign of progress from the 5 to 10 vote of last week.

More than ever we are firmly convinced that such a move is the only logical academic remedy the I.F.C. can prescribe. We are proud of the two houses that thought rationally enough to change their decision last week. A vote test.

Since last week, the tripod has investigated the academic question even further, and has compiled the following data pertaining to the sophomore class.

1. There were 22 men who did not have a 70 average who pledged fraternities this Fall.
2. Of these 22 men, 5 fell below 60 last January.
3. Of these 22 men, only 4 men brought their academic averages up to 70 or better in January.
4. The remaining 18 men (of who fell below 60) never managed to make a 70 average.
5. Of the men who pledged to a fraternity last January, 4 went academic probation. In addition, 2 juniors and 1 senior flunked out who had never attained a 70 average.

It should be kept in mind that 67 is the lowest possible average that a student can take into account the national and local fraternity picture, whereby fraternities are being called upon daily to verify their own esteem of their members by expressing exceptions in the academic picture, and fail completely to offer anything but rationalization, fears of the loss of I.F.C. power, and the fear of taking a positive, rational step in any one direction at one time.

EVIDENCE: THE PROGRAM IS IN PROGRESS

(Editors' Note)

More than 1,000 Trinity alumni live in far-flung areas all over the world, where personal solicitations for the Program of Progress is virtually impossible. However, the Development Office and the College freshly Magazine agreed that some method of personal solicitation is necessary in order to give every alumnus the most complete picture possible of Trinity's "Program of Progress for the College of the future."

To accomplish this, Albert E. Holdredge, Vice-President, in charge of development, and Robert Bacon, his assistant, decided to use a special mailing, producing professionally on the campus and manufactured by one of the nation's leading record makers. The record was mailed to all distant alumni in the United States and Canada, South America, Europe, and Asia.

To the Editor of the Tripod:

When the fine little record reached me, beginning and ending with "Neath the Elms," I urged the committee to have the Glee Club produce a 10 or 12 inch record of all Trinity songs, or a selection of the best Trinity songs with perhaps some other college songs added to make it more comprehensive. If you will publish this suggestion in the "Tripod," perhaps other Trinity men would express their agreement that these remarks were made for such a record to be made.

The present Glee Club as shown in this little record, is one of the finest men's choirs I have ever heard, and I have heard and sung in a lot of them.

Faithfully,

Chairman
(Rev.) Charles R. Crisler, Jr. '74.

Dr. Lacy Speaks on Testing

By CHARLES BELL

An expose of some of the most important uses and abuses of vocational guidance was presented by Dr. O. W. Lacy at a meeting of the Psychology Club on March 7th. The fee is no "general" it doesn't seem to ruin such things. Is the broken window too "specifica?" The only thing this fee 'generally' does is grow larger. Certainly the school could afford a $20 glass once in a while, without making a case out of it. The point is not the three dollar assessment, but rather that I like to feel that maybe I can get a little less for my money.

It's like an insurance company which regularly collects a premium for years but vanishes when a fire occurs.

Dr. Lacy emphasized that people purging to give vocational guidance frequently missed their "clients." Interests, skills, and personality traits were given as the most pertinent factors in determining results. The stressing of any one of these factors is one of the most common abuses of the field according to Lacy.

A common example of this abuse is the emphasis on the Strong Vocational Interest Test, which is given at Trinity, without a proper knowledge of the group on which the test was formulated and the relative importance of the test.

Examples of good and bad counseling were given by Dr. Lacy to back up his statements.

Hungarian Student Will Attend Amherst

Amherst College has accepted a Hungarian student as a sophomore for the coming year, and he has been given a scholarship.

It was announced Thursday, February 28, by Student Council President Peter Parker '58, that Gabor Forgó, who took part in the revolution in Budapest, is now living in Vienna to come to this country, and to Amherst College.

The Student Council is undertaking a study as to how they can raise the remainder of the money needed to give Forgó a year at Amherst.

Parker voiced his confidence that the Amherst student body would get out of its way to demonstrate its sympathy for the Hungarian cause. "Surely," he said, "no better method can be devised to pave the way for a future free Hungary than through the education of Hungarian refugees in American colleges and universities. I am sure that Amherst students will help this student adjust to his new environment."

IFC Weighs Change In Pledging Average

Discussion of Constitution changes and consideration of the proposal which would raise the pledging average by 4% to 70 highlighted Monday nights meeting of the IFC.

Mortimer Compute

Laird Mottimer '57, Editor of the Tripo, introduced a set of statistics in an attempt to show the need for raising the pledging average. In a last vote the motion to change the average from 67 to 70 was defeated by a vote of 3 to 1, needing a vote of 5 to 2 for acceptance. There will be further discussion in the fraternity houses before the motion comes up for a final vote.

Open Campus

A motion was proposed which would create an open campus in terms of rushing of freshmen but was quickly killed with the suggestion that it be brought up in house meetings for discussion and modification.
