New Chapel Dedicated Here Today

By ED WAGGONEER

JUNE 18, 1932 — Today the spiritual and academic facades of the old chapel, donated by William G. Mather, were removed, and in its place, four windows were featured, each carrying out its appointed duties with alacrity and importance.

At 10 a.m. the bells of the old chapel rang out for the last time. With a short service, the altar instruments were removed and the main procession marched toward the new chapel, in the edifice of the old organ.

Upon reaching Northaven Tower, the Main, or Consistory Bishop’s Presence was united with the waiting Northaven Chapel, to the Consistory Bishop and Dr. Ogilby leading the two groups, the Crypt, Chancel, and Presiding Bishop’s Presentations marked between.

At the door of the new chapel, the Chaplain of the Consistory Bishop knelled three times. After the Superintendent of Construction opened the door, Mr. Brent, the contractor, handed the keys to the Crypt Bishop, the Mathers, the donor. He, in turn, presented the keys to Dr. Ogilby, who acted as reciter for the chapel.

The previous procession, towarding the chapel, banded three times, the Chapel of Perfect Friendship, the Crypt Chapel, the sacristy, the closet, and the Main Altar. All groups met at the Chapel, with four bishops being escorted by Dr. Ogilby (Continued on page 6).

Class of 57 Steals Squeaker at Annual Honor’s Celebration

MAY 15, 1936 — The annual Honor Day Ceremonies was dramatically interrupted this afternoon at the Class of ’37, in a daring break-in, a squeaker was peacefully aliabed from the Chapel with the time-Lemon Squeaker.

The credited instrument was being awarded by the Senior Class to the Freshman Class when an unsuspected Junior stepped from the pulpits area and wrested the Squeaker from the hands of the astonished Freshman.

Roosevelt Lectures Here

HARTFORD, JUNE 17, 1938 — At 11 a.m. yesterday morning, Theodore Roosevelt addressed the largest crowd of people ever assembled at one time on the campus of Trinity College. Giving the Commencement address before a sell-out audience, the ex-president delivered one of the most stirring speeches ever heard in Hartford.

Trinity’s president, Floyd Swezey Lathrop, introduced Roosevelt, setting the tone of the event. Roosevelt had to accommodate the huge crowd. He concluded his introduction by saying, “I present the first act, who is, perhaps, the greatest, and friend of America; for seven years its president, always its staunch lover.”

“Friends and fellow Americans,” Roosevelt began, “and no man living in the country whom I can’t call a fellow American is a friend of mine. I am glad to be introduced by my friend in words which, however, undeservedly, I believe to gladden my children and grandchildren be to be desired.”

Roosevelt remarked that he often was accused of liking to preach, stated, “I do” and then read this text from the Bible: “... but not that which giveth an armor or boast itself that it is come, Let us quit boasting until we have done something to boast about,” said Roosevelt.

President Eisenhower Receives Honorary Degree at Convocation

OCTOBER 20, 1954—The President of the United States spoke at a college convocation here this morning. He stressed the impor- tance of religious institutions in preparing the youth of today to meet the tensions of the modern world.

For Eisenhower, the talk was a brief pause in the midst of a national campaign. He arrived in New England for weekend meetings in the “Colonies” at Bradley Field at 9:15 a.m. looking trim and playing broadly. Governor Lodge and Dean Hughes were on hand to escort him to the convocation.

The convocation ceremonies opened with the President of the college, the degree of law in the chief executive. He then delivered a 15-minute non-political address before an audience of 7,500.

Class President. Events proceed in a synecdothic fashion that was in- dividually of the fellows and throughout planning that made the robbery proba- ble. Dean Clarke was present in person at the thief who then rapidly located the exit door of the Chapel. Members of the Junior Class were strategically located in the Chapel paras so that they could co-operate effectively block the onrush of outraged freshmen.

Collegne Moving To Gallows’ Hill; Building, Expansion Anticipated

JANUARY 15, 1937 — The recent deci- sion of the Trustees of Trinity to sell the present site of the College to the City of Hartford, has naturally excited a new interest in the future of this institution among our friends throughout the country.

It is pointed out that some of the Trustees were decidedly opposed to the sale, not for any economic reason, but for the possibility of securing a second college in the State (the same being Yale), but the idea was abandoned until 1922. In that year Bishop Brownell, President of Trinity, and the Connecticut parishes asking the General Assembly to grant a charter to the college at the same time that we have. The petitions were aware of the board’s position and important (Continued on page 5)

BROWNNell To Be College Prexy

By JOHN STAMBAUGH

NEW HAVEN, MAY 7, 1827.—At a meeting here yesterday, the trustees of the College of Connecticut, the Rev. Thomas Church Brownell as president, and chose Hartford as their city's subscription.

Bishop Brownell has been working for the establishment of a college related to the Episcopal church ever since his consecra- tion as bishop. He is widely respected both as a clergyman and as an educator. Graduated as valdelect- orium from Union College in 1804, he has been tutor in Greek and Latin, professor of Biblical Letters and Moral Philosophy there. In 1813, he spent a year traveling (mainly on foot) through England, visiting factories and labo- ritories in preparation for assuming the professorship of Union's new de- partment of science.

Before his election as Bishop, he was an assistant at Trinity Church, New York.

Since the graduation of the college's first class, ten years ago, fifteen thousand dollars have raised to the college's endowment. Bishop Brownell arrived right at his New Haven home. Yester- day's announcement that the college in Hartford was based on the expecta- tion of generous subscriptions from the Hartford area. The site of this col- lege was in Hartford, nine; Middlesex, five; and New London, two.

Episcopal clergymen have been at- tempting to found a college in Connecticut, but the state legislature refused to grant the Epis- copal Academy in Chapelworth permission to confer college degrees. A commit- tee was formed in 1821 to explore the possibility of founding a second college in the State (the one being Yale), but the idea was abandoned until 1822. In that year Bishop Brownell, President of Trinity, and the Connecticut parishes asking the General Assembly to grant a charter to the college, as Fifth of the bill fell.

Now, only with a half year remain- ing for undergraduate class, seniors have decided to make some use of the campus.

They are being worn as a badge of honor.

Seniors Wear Caps After Frosh Refuse

HARTFORD, MAY 1, 1935—Hartford seniors are wearing freshmen skull cap nowadays as a matter of economy. Three years ago, the class of 1935, then sopho- more, ordered the blue and gold caps for the freshmen.

At that time, however, first-year housing was on the verge of collapse, and freshmen refused to accept the traditional mark of humility. The class of ’35 footed the bill.

Now, only with a half year remain- ing for undergraduate class, seniors have decided to make some use of the caps.

They are being worn as a badge of honor.

Advertising in Tripod

By MATT LEVINE

Down through the years, advertisers have sought to increase the lure of their products by many enticing and enticing means, and the evolution of advertising—as evidenced by Tripod—is an accurate reflection of trends in American taste.

Those who ting in any Student subscription received two weeks prior to the publication of the column for all the latest and greatest in the advertising world.

With issues of the Students' Rights among her contemporaries today as a Features Editor, Monday, March 8, 1879. The column, "The Trinity Tripod," is one of the oldest and most respected in the college's history. With a circulation of over 10,000, it is a must-read for anyone interested in the college's culture and traditions.

The Tripod Tablet, by editor, drawing, photographers, and the like, the air of cornball humor and sales pitch has been at an all-time high. The former offer an actor's photo along with a college, a product, or a cause, all wrapped up with a bow.

The amazing gifts to the medical world were even more striking this year. The number of advertisements diminished noticeably. With the 20's, a new trend emerged: the use of advertising to sell cigarettes. This trend has continued to this day, with many special regulations and restrictions in place.

Finally some life. Luckies, a new brand of cigarettes, made their debut in 1910, with a price of $1.00 for a box of 20. The advertisements were simple and straightforward, with the slogan "Delta Delta Delta" prominent in many of the ads. The cigarettes were a hit, and the brand continued to grow in popularity.

WASHINGTON Birthday Ceremony

Results in Student Resignation

FEBRUARY 26, 1879—The proceedings of Trinity's annual Washington's Birthday demonstration, from their conventional course and led to a series of remarkable or devastating events.

On Monday, the student body learned that an order had been placed by the faculty demanding that the songs that were to be sung that night at the Washington's Birthday celebration be first submitted to the English Literature.

The order, which seemed quite objectionable to the students, climaxed a long misunderstanding between the undergraduates and the faculty. An outraged student body gathered to discuss the possibilities of maintaining their own rights under the present circumstances. It was resolved to honor this year's festivities in one of the local halls, the expenses to be borne by those attending.

By 8 a.m., a large number of students were already massed at a Seminary Hall, which had been rented for the occasion. The celebration, an event unsanctioned by the faculty, was attended by a large number of students. Some students were specially written for the occasion were featured along with an oration by J. S. Carpenter, '71, who addressed the Trinity students' cause with that of George Washington.

On Monday it was announced that site seniors and one junior had been suspended for six weeks for their participation in the college's illegal celebration.

The angry student body composed and formally presented the suspensions. Upon refusal by the faculty to honor the suspensions, the entire student body was formally resigned and stated they would demand their absences from all college affairs including classes until the appeal was granted. On Tuesday, corrections of the entire matter were to be sent to parents and to the Associated Press. Parents were then telephoned and arrived.

Through the years, the Squeezers have had a history so dramatic as to make this afternoon's theft. It first appeared on campus a year ago when the class of 1857 voted to honor "that Class, that still in school, whose aggregate excellence in scholarship, moral character, and the qualities requisite to popularity was at the highest." The Squeezers were first seen at 1857's Class Day when it presented the banner, "The True Lemon Squeezers of 1857.

The firstobby attempt occurred in 1863 when '63 awarded '64 with the traditional award. A daring Freshman leaped from the Chapel porch on the banner. The Sophomores gained the Squeezers and in the ensuing melee almost succeeded in stealing the prize. Through the combined efforts of '59, '63, the faculty and the police, the Squeezers were returned to the proper class.

Through the years, the Squeezers have been passed from class to class without incident until 1895. In that year a group of Northam, the Senior Class was about to present the prize to the Class of 97', a man from the Class of '97 who was 'one of the speakers' platform before a bewildered crowd, refused to receive the Squeezers. He passed it off to another man who sped it off on horseback. Thus, the true Lemon Squeezers disappeared from the Trinity scene for over half a decade. Several attempts appeared to take its place. Finally, around 1914, the President of the College announced that the Squeezers were in the possession of an "Aunt Matilda" of the Alumni. After this, the true Lemon Squeezers returned to Trinity. In 1951, the group gained entrance to the Chapel office at night and stole what they thought was the real Squeezers. A brief investigation, however, showed that the true one was located in the Treasurer's Office.

This afternoon's thefts if not surprising. Only the past few years have there been any Squeezers. But, whenever they were heard in any way, somehow, and in almost every class, they appeared.
Sticka Sparks Finale; 15th Straight Win

SATURDAY, NOV. 15, 1955 — This has been a great year! The largest crowd (over fifty football, some 8,000 fans, turned out to watch the finest football team in Trinity history defeat Wesleyan by a 44-1 count for the fifteenth victory in a row—the conclusion to two consecutive undefeated years! But that’s not all; the greatest is still to be mentioned. That’s Fullback Charlie Sticka, who this afternoon ran, batted, twisted, and made those three touchdowns in one of the finest individual efforts ever seen on Trinity Field.

The Stick did not procrastinate. After a fast exchange and a quick series of plays, he emerged through the line, stiffened his way past the secondary, and poured on the steam for a 25-yard touchdown insertion. After leading the Bulldogs to a 24-2 margin early in the second quarter, Sticka powered a fourth drive down the field and planked one yard for another.

A short Whee sec pass was the only blunder in the first-half record, as the score stood 27-6 in favor of the Hilltoppers.

No more displays of the Grid's punch after that, however—Sticka's brilliant 45-yard sec pass burst all the way out of bounds, clearing one and all who was.

A quick tour of Sticka, Sticka permitted nobody to clunk him. Making about half the ball's Gold tackles, he ran wild and was on the run over or around. His back-half pass defense and vicious blocking counted out a terrific day's work for "The Stick."

No matter how sparkling his performance, Sticka will probably not rate the "little" All-American selections. Charlie turned down numerous college athletic grants to spend a year at Trinity Preparing in order that he might attend Harvard the following year.

Although two classmates with lower College Board scores were accepted to the Cambridge school, Sticka was turned down. After a preliminary decision to attend Trinity, Charlie was accepted through better letters and personally by a Dame Duane man. The two parties never agreed to a settlement.

The decision has proved agreeable to both Trinity and to Sticka, producing a 39-8 average, "The Stick" has proven his merit academically as well as athletically. Doubly, he has also been a success.

Sticka has never heard the Dame Duane type of appraiser. He played before larger crowds than Trinity's when he went to high school. He is attending a school that stresses athletic work, but that is not an activity, as an activity. Notably, Trinity has no highly-paid coaches hired to win games or "else." Trin-

The Cricket Match A Success

APRIL 20, 1942 — The Trinity Asserted Englishmen, a pick of squad of cricket players assembled from all points of the compass, turned out to be a crack unit in handling the mighty Harvard team, 148-0.

The Asserted Englishmen were composed of young men from Columbia, Hartford, Kent School, Trinity and, Trinity also; in order to gather the regulation eleven men, a trio of athletes was imported from the Providence Cricket Club, and the area was armed for Brillitians living in this country.

Haverford, one of the few American cricket and tennis clubs in the U.S. to maintain cricket as an official sport, has an enviable past record. In the 1890's Haverford sent a team to England to compete. Rember from the far side of the Atlantic has his team a plug-up a spirited fight in a losing cause.

The game began in the evening at eleven. The Haverford cricket players were favored by Trinity as they were not met previously for practice. Before the witnesses were put down they had amassed 36 tallys.

Drabowsky No-Hits Wesleyan 2-0 As Big League Scouts Watch

MAY 10, 1944 — Drabowsky hurled a no-hit game today at Trinity High and the team today by a score of 27-6.

Rightrighthanded fannin the first eight was in a sparkling performance.

Serious league scouts watched the game.

Kellerer scored both runs and reeled out the first two that the Haverford team today by a score of outside.

This is the first no-hitter in college competition, although he has thrown no-hitters previously against other competition. Feg Vogel is in the record at a young man at college should Think him, and for the close friendships made possible by the Cricketers, there is probably more possible that each will find a successful and in each event could become an annual affair.

TUESDAY, JANUARY 7, 1942 — Trinity was defeated by the YMA team today by a score of 946. The team was weakened by the absence of several regular players, thus all attempts at teamwork were in vain.

In marked contrast was the splendid passing and goal throwing of the YMA team as they seemed to sink every shot they put out.

In the first half Trinity was utterly at sea, the men never having been together before, and no passing was possible under the conditions. In the second half Trinity headed slightly and was able to score two goals. High scorer for Trinity was Flynn with three points, followed closely by Van Wehlen with two.

Sports Rivalry With Hillyer Causes Laughter at Trinity

DECEMBER 13, 1949 — Mr. James Lyons, Publicity Chairman of the Hillyer College, has told the Trinity-Hillyer sports columnist, Pete Not, that a number of students of the Hillyer newspapers, has had much to say on the subject, meaning an ability of being smiled at and "unjustified ridicule." Zorio says that the so-called quality rivalry between Wesleyan and Trinity is not as realistic as a Trinity-Hillyer rivalry. He postulates that there is not a constant contact between the student bodies of Trinity and Wesleyan, and so this close competition cannot long endure.

It should be pointed out to Mr. Lyons that the students of Trinity and Wesleyan are in constant contact on several levels, curricular, political, intellectual, and fraternal.

It might easily have been said "social" instead of "intellectual," Zorio says. As the so-called quality rivalry between Wesleyan and Trinity is not as realistic as a Trinity-Hillyer rivalry, it postulates that there is not a constant contact between the student bodies of Trinity and Wesleyan, and so this close competition cannot long endure.

Alumni Hall Damaged by Blaze

PUBLISHED FIVE TIMES DURING THE ACADEMIC YEAR BY STUDENTS OF TRINITY UNIVERSITY

Page Five

FEBRUARY 18, 1959 — In the fifth of a series of mysterious black blazes, Alumni Hall was gutted and almost leveled last Saturday night.

Following on the heels of blazes which have cropped up on campus in the past, a small fire was fed by the dormitory and various dormitory rooms in Jarvis, this "accident," as well as others, is expected to be the foil of a pyromaniac.

When the cry of "Fire!" resounded across the campus at noon, flames had already burst through the windows in the east end of Alumni Hall. Anthony Rich, a sophomore, turned in the alarm.

The call was answered by four fire companies and a car. At the time the fire fighters arrived the second floor was a seething mass.

Students, working quickly, removed all the apparatus and athletic material from the lower floor of the building and carried it up to the entranceway. They also pitched in, helping the brave men from the heavy hose into the Hall, and gathering up the crevices with containers of hot coffee was a big job for the President's house.

The first company ran a hose through the main door. A second line was taken through the rear door to the athletic fields and used from the running truck above the gymnasium.

A third company took a hose around the east side of the building and up a ladder. A fourth company ran a hose (see picture) from the hose house and slanted it 45 degrees to the roof. Just a few minutes after the crew was at the roof, the alarm had been turned off, it was then a problem to get the roof not to spark but finally kicked in.

As the painted canvas scenerly was stored behind the stage, the firemen had to go in the main door and quickly ran the length of the building. Only twenty minutes after the alarm had been turned on, the roof began falling in at the east end. The wall勋章 slowly crumbled, and it too fell into the mass of flames.

The fire, which started near a smoke stack, was put out by the State Police, began an investigation immediately. The findings have been disclosed as yet.

All doubts as to the origin of the fire are now being dispelled by a firm belief in incendiarism. The last time Alumni Hall was burned was two weeks ago, when the clan of 1925 held its junior Prom. No one has had occasion to enter the other rooms since the dance. Particularly, there has been no need to go to that part of the stage where scenery is stored.

Cousy Leads Holy Cross Win Over Outclassed Hilltoppers

DECEMBER 14, 1949 — "The greatest player I have ever seen anywhere." Thus Coach Ray Oosting managed to describe the phenomenal Bob Cousy who had just spurred Holy Cross to its 77-73 demolition of Trinity.

The game, played in the Crusader gym, was strictly a one man show. Playing sleight of hand basketball with the grace of a professional, the lean All-American completely outclassed the Hilltoppers.

Holy Cross

Stag Trinity

Not only was he high scorer with twenty points but his shot of dazzling ball handling and playmaking stunned the visitors. Cousy spent the night effortlessly carrying through the Trinity defense as if through many fireplugs.

The nervous Hilltoppers played in the early stages of the tempest as if under the court magician's spell. Their first goal was nine minutes in the making and the half time found Trinity with a 42-28 deficit.

Submitting freely in the second half, the Crusaders reserve took up the deadly shooting when the starters left off. Trinity's team play suffered greatly and only the excellent four play of Bob Nalbone staved off complete disintegration.

Two Years Ago

The antics of New England's Mr. Basketball are unfortunately familiar to both Trinity and local fans. Two years ago Cousy, then a sophmore, invaded the State Armoury with the then National Champion Cross squad.

The post mortem on that debate reads Cousy 74, Trinity 44.

It seems that when Mr. Cousy is in the zone, the game degenerates into a battle to hold the score down. Not only were his lightning passes too fast for the crowd to follow and much too fast for Trinity to handle, but often they stunned his own players. It's a temptation for opponents to stand and marvel at his work.

Lab Boat Idea Near Reality

MARCH 17, 1959 — The idea of a floating laboratory as part of the college equipment for the study of biology, as first proposed by Professor Edwards fifteen years ago, is nearing realization. Only $500 is needed before the project can be put into motion.

The plan is to purchase a used ninety-foot schooner, costing not more than $2,000. The ship would be equipped with the necessary permanent biological, chemical, physical and photographic laboratories, auxiliary engines, and living accommodations for sixteen students and in- vestigators.

The vessel will leave for the sub-tropics in early summer, spending a month or more in this region before starting the northerly trip. The Baha-mas Islands will probably be the first destination, because these islands are relatively free from yellow fever. The first trip will take place in the summer of 1959.

The importance of the laboratory boat cannot be underestimated. Most important study and research in natural history has for some time been devoted to the investigation of the apparently unlimited and infinitely varied animal life of the ocean.

To be first among all the colleges to establish a Floating Laboratory will give Trinity prestige the world over.

J. P. Morgan To Give Funds

OCTOBER 29, 1912 — J. Pierpont Morgan, a trustee of the college, announced Saturday that he would personally finance the construction of a Williams Hall which would house the library and administrative offices.

Morgan’s announcement followed the action taken at the meeting of the College Corporation which voted to take immediate steps to raise $1,000,000 to increase the endowment and to provide the funds for the construction of new buildings.

According to Morgan, Benjamin W. Morris, Jr., will be the architect, and plans will be drawn up as soon as possible. Work is expected to begin in the spring. The estimated cost of $1,000,000 is based on the cost of other similar buildings in colleges of like size and need as Trinity.

Students Prepare for Two Wars; Courses, Routine Reorganized

OCTOBER 1, 1918—Today all Trinity students physically fit for military service were inducted into a unit of the Students’ Army Training Corps.

This means that the army will train these men so that they may receive a commission. The student body now conforms to military routine and discipline from 6:15 reveille to 10 o’clock taps. A rigid schedule dictates the procedure from conditions to which they had accustomed themselves.

The government is now paying for the food, clothing, and tuition work in the classroom and on the parade ground. Any man failing to conform to army regulations has little hope of receiving a commission.

Colonel Calvin D. Cawley, who commanded the Trinity ROTC last year, has been appointed the S.A.T.C. commandant. He has been hailed as a successful in the difficult task of organization. Assisting him are Lieutenant Cook and Buck who will command Trinity’s two companies.

JANUARY 10, 1942—The Board of Trustees unanimously put into effect today Dr. Ogilby’s plan for a revised calendar shortening college courses. This program will enable students to get as much education in as little time as possible, thus increasing their chances of attaining commissions. Those who are to be drafted by midyear will be allowed to take their examinations now in order that they may leave with no strings attached.

The plan also called for the division of the student body into six groups of approximately equal size and that the classes are the most important. The remaining students will be split into four emergency units which will consist of a first aid squad and a “flying squad” equipped with a car. Each of the defense groups will be headed by a professor living on campus who will be aided by a student lieutenant.

By February 18, most of the construction was finished. Preparations were made for the spring opening of classes. Each officer of the defense groups will be presented an excellent address.

Egans Decline $64,000 Try

MARCH 13, 1956 — Trinity’s most publicized dollars declined to $77 for television’s “$64,000 Question” last night. Bill and Jim Egan (‘33 and ‘32) remain as record-breaking chances in New York on the give-away show, collecting $32,000 and $32,000 in 1955, announced the Governor’s Foot Guard assisted.

On December 11, 1955, they were summoned to the death of heat, light, and windows, Commencement was served in the Crypt Chapel.

Throughout history, progress has been rapid. Only a few incidents marked the steady rise of the imposing structure. A slight delay was caused by the trouble of transporting stone from Indiana, when it was quarried. Although the well fed for ceiling beams was slow in arriving, none could say after observing its perfection, that the wait was vain. After a pole wire snapped, and beams fell on the scaffolding, the workmen returned faithfully to their work. Even after which the carillon bell, work went on with an anxious site of great impending accomplishment.

Finally, May 26 of the year, the first church service was held in the new Trinity Chapel. A perfect monument to real effort, that awesome House of God has come to stand for the very ideals of Try.
