No More ‘Major’ Sports

Recognition of Four Additional Sports Announced by Council

APRIL 18—The Athletic Advisory Council in a special meeting called today by Athletic Director glen Oosting recommended to the policy of distinguishing between varsity and minor sports. The decision will become effective September of this year.

The decision is a result of those actions of minor sports were golf, squash, and tennis. The biggest promotion, however, went to rowing which will now rank as a varsity sport, having previously been considered a formal activity.

The Administrative Council, composed of three faculty members, three alumni, and three students, based the decision on a five-point evaluation system.

Student Interest Shown

Student interest, both present and in the future, was the major consideration in the evaluation of physical facilities, expenses, and scheduling plans were also considered in the meeting, which will now reclassify all informal sports.

Oosting cited the major factor in the development of varsity status at Trinity and Amherst as the decision made by the coaching staff. Oosting states that a team, then, received varsity status. As Oosting put it, “From this point forward, all varsity sports will receive letter awards and receive only limited financial assistance. Wesleyan-Wesleyan, female led by the third place concern concerning rowing.

Dartmouth Fraternities Threatened

(UPS)—Four Dartmouth fraternities are going to request by Legoo and Amelia R. Oosting to hold three special meetings on the campus of the Dartmouth Fraternity Council committee's report.

Dr. Oosting, Phi Gamma Delta, Sigma Chi, Sigma and Sigma Nu are the four houses required to go local because of nationally imposed discrimination.

However, several of these houses may be able to change their status before the September 1 deadline. If they can meet the criteria, they will be allowed to remain in national affiliation.

"Socially Acceptable" Clauses Explained

The report includes an explanation of "socially acceptable" clauses. Some of these clauses are non-discriminatory and others are not. The committee's decision in this matter was guided by the concept of local autonomy. In other words, the chapter is able to grant autonomy from the national in discriminatory matters, socially acceptable clauses in the national may be tolerated.

Each fraternity was treated as an individual case, and socially acceptable clauses were viewed in the light of their practical application in the affairs of the fraternity in question.

Annual Huntsman Concern IPC Meeting

MARCH 25—Two aspects of Spring Weekend and a rousing resolution were discussed in tonight’s IPC meeting. Last week's proposed barring free association between freshmen and fraternity men on Sunday, May 6, was dropped, and arrangements were made for the annual Soap Box Derby.

Oosting said that if the first three rounds are declared a tie, the final race will take place at 12:30 p.m. on Saturday, May 5. A twelve dollar cash prize will be awarded the winning cars, which will assemble at 12:15 at the top of Vernon Street to line up for positions.

The Annual Football Tournament will be held May 9th-10th. The IPC is seeking donations for the Hartford Bridge Club for their aid in scoring and officiating the contest.

POLL: Nix on Integration

By DAVID SIFTON

APRIL 25—Results of the student poll on dorm integration were released by Senator Morgan at the Senate meeting tonight. The final tallies showed, said Morgan, that “all the classes felt that we should go back to the old system.”

Integration and Unity

The Senior Class in particular, he said, showed an "overwhelming majority" for all residence students.

"The College," he added, "is also concerned with the housing of some of our groups." A report prepared by a special committee of the Trustees on student housing states that fraternities or "socially acceptable fraternities," who so desire will be assigned quarters on the North Campus.

Because the Trustees, the report also says, are responsible for providing these "socially acceptable fraternities" for all residence students, all those not so housed "within a period of five years from September 1, 1960, must reside" on the North Campus or in other college dormitories.

The plans do not indicate a future increase in the total undergraduate enrollment, President Jacobs said.

To facilitate opening at least one part of the North Campus by September, 1961, Dr. Jacobs hopes construction will begin immediately after the Trustees’ meeting on June 10.

Code—Committee Organized

Three buildings — two dormitories and a dining area — are presently being designed by Student Council Architect Robert B. O'Connor.

The two dormitories, each of which will be divided into five equal sections, will house a total of 200 students. Each section will contain a lounge and a study hall.

Dr. Jacobs hopes that six sections and the dining area will be completed by September, 1961. The completion date for the rest of the project is uncertain.

Fraternity Sections

A fraternity may elect to take one in an entire section of the dormitories, although the report on student housing states, "The College reserves the right to assign other students to vacant rooms in the event that a fraternity or another assigned group does not fill its quarters."

"Any social group occupying college dormitory space on the North Campus will give the college ..."—the Sophomore, first to enter under the integrated system, judged "fair to the student body" was a "moot point."

By the same token, the Senior Class, he said, would show an overwhelming majority for all residence students.

Socialist Plais

A place for Socialist recognition by the Student Socialist Club of Trinity College was met with lively discussion at this week's meeting of the group.
Satisfaction Guaranteed?
The Trustees' concern with the "safe and satisfactory" housing of Trinity students is as lasting as the years. The North Campus, two dormitories between Allen and Trumbull, were completed last fall. The first-year students, veterans, and guests will all guarantee students sufficient study, lounging, and sleeping quarters.

One-semester residence halls, which requires all students "not otherwise satisfactorily housed," to move into these new dormitories, must be both recognized and rectified if the plan is to become "facially housed" mean? The Tripod suggests that the fraternities, for whom this clause is obviously designed, are being asked to condition the wishes with which will render their present quarters untenable.

If this suggestion is followed, a house's choice to move into one of five section-identifiable halls may be determined by the source can never be construed as having been made other than the Trustees.

The Trustees plan is a good one; let's hope it's all-important "satisfactory" choice.

Conflict or Cooperation
The Physical Education Department, acting through the Athletic Advisory Council and under the guidance of Athletic Director Ray Ousting, this week announced that, effective this fall, it is to implement the current policy of distinguishing between major and minor sports. The policy is to be effective throughout and fair basis of evaluation. But major sports, it is to be presented on a concept for cooperation.

This opinion was not only sampled by the current athletic students, but was also sought through the three student members of the Council, and a department's action represents a very healthy system of student-faculty communication. For the administration to blame this exception rather than the rule at Trinity.

In another recent instance, an attempt at student-admission cooperation resulted only in conflict. Earlier in the year the Senate resolved that this semester would be a suitable and desirable time to conduct a non-partisan survey of student opinion to aid an evaluation of the still-rigorous policy of dormitory integration. This was to be, in the right spirit of congressional investigation, an enlightening venture that might reveal the need for constructive action on the part of the Senate to maintain and strengthen the stature that up to now has been respected by the students. Under this principle, will settle for the President and nothing less.

To the Editor:

In view of the recent picketing demonstration at the campus of the University of Notre Dame, I wish to permit me to say that the traditional objective of the Roman Catholic Church has been to improve the human condition. To this end, the Church has attempted to raise the moral condition of man by bringing his to a higher plane of wisdom and truth.

The principal purpose of education is to help the student to come to a greater understanding of the world around him, and to help him to develop an appreciation of the value of other cultures and of the diverse ways of life. The Church, through its educational institutions, has contributed much to this end.

The purpose of higher education is to aid the student in the development of his own personality and to prepare him for a useful role in society. It is through the college that a young man is guided in the development of his personal philosophy and is given an opportunity to think critically about the problems of life.

The Catholic Church has always been a leader in the field of education, especially in the realm of higher education, and it is to be hoped that it will continue to play a leading role in the future.

Promotions for Two Instructors

APRIL 14—Dr. Jacobs announced today the promotions of Frederick R. Stoddart and Alvin R. Reinhart, assistant professors of philosophy and engineering, respectively.

Mr. Stoddart, who joined the Trinity faculty in 1960, received his B.A. from Yale and his B.A. from B.A. College, where he graduated Phi Beta Kappa. Mr. Reinhart graduated from the University of New Haven and attended graduate courses at Trinity, the University of Connecticut, and Springfield College. He advises the college's group of hockey players.

Certification of Status

The report presents a greatly reconstituted certification of status through annual submission of the president's pledge. The letter from the national has not been submitted only once, but "the committee feels that it would be desirable to have the annual re-certification letter submitted each year in the fall term, prior to the initiation of the pledge class," Green added.

APRIL 25 — Scary senior short stop Pete Travis today shined an eight inning bases loaded single by a drawn-in Yale infield to drive across the tying and lead runs and insure a 6-5 Trinity victory over the Eli.

For Dan Johnson’s hit, it was the first win in four starts. Their record now stands at one win, two losses, and a tie. The win was particularly gratifying in that it maintained the current Trinity winning streak over that team. The Jessemen have triumphed in the last four annual encounters. Yale teams have lost every meeting with Connecticut squad since 1937 (A.D.).

Carpenter Effective

The Yales, behind the strong pitching of Rolly Carpenter and timely hitting, appeared on the way to reversing the happy trend as they parlayed three hits into runs in the first two innings. Trinity retaliated with a tally in the third that when Roland Johnson singled and eventually scored on an infield out, gave the hosts a 2-1 lead. The next six frames Car­penter scattered five. Tris hits and held the lads scoreless.

Bantam Explosion

The visitors added a run in the top of the eighth inning by a lead off. The Bantams pushed a run across and loaded the bases with a double by Bill Polk, singles by Doug Anderson and Bill Leslie, and an intentional pass to pitcher Al Perlman. It was then that Tarseo delivered the decisive blow that sent two hands of Jessee’s livestock scrapping across the plate.

End of a Busy Week

A Yale counterattack in the ninth was quashed when the leadoff single of Rolly’s batting triumph was negated in a game-ending double play.

By outlasting the Eli, Trinity benefited through its well-balanced line-up. It was the team’s third game victory in four days.

Coast Guard

Saturday last the Bantams met the Coast Guard at New London and were turned back, 5-4.

In his first varsity start, Don Woodruff acquitted himself well. In his coach’s words, “pitching well enough to win” he was the victim of only four run inning.

The absence of steady second-baseman Bob Polk necessitated a revamped lineup for the beat. The Coasties had played eight games against Trinity.

Woodruff matched the efforts of the classy Academy hurler Lomer in surrendering only 11 hits in a route-going performance. A sixth inning rally managed to narrow the gap to one run before being quashed.

“Nightmarish Force

The day before, in a marathon exhibition of sloppy baseball which the Hartford Courant termed a “night­marish farce,” the Bantams managed to pilot a 7:1 lead before stalling to tie Bowdoin 9-9.

The hurling duo of Perlman and Randy Sanders limited only nine hits but were victimized by twelve base hits.

The saving grace of the contest was a well-timed action at the plate as John Se­nee enabling the tying run to score in the ninth inning tying.

Mr. Dan Takes Charge

With pinch runner Ed Morrison of third and two out, Jessee privately warned the umpire to watch for a baserun in the ninth. As the pitcher stretched, Morrison dashed for home. The rattled hurler backed off the rubber and with out passing first to the plate to null the runner. In the ensuing row Jessee persuaded the umpire to the proper interpretation of the rule book, maintaining that by his failures to ignore the pitcher was delivering a pitch to the plate although it was at the time technically an infield.

On the next pitch the game was called because of darkness and ruled a 1-1 tie.

Camping Wildfire

Coastie Bill Leahy demonstrates his ability to do the Australian crawl in Monday’s Yale game.

Elf second baseman was forced to throw on an attempted pickoff. The Jessemen pushed across two runs in the eighth to defeat Eli’s Allen’s club, 6-1.

APRIL 20 — Trinity dropped its opening lacrosse game to Amherst 6-5. Goalee Steve Lazarus was credited with 35 saves for the game. Last year he had the highest number of saves per game in the nation.

Fred Pringle led the Bantam attack with three goals. Midfielders Dick Connors and Bob Tyndall scored one goal apiece for Trinity.

According to Coach Clot McFers, the team showed first game jitters, but looked polished and aggressive in the second half. Compared to the poised and deliberate game of the Amherst attack, the Bantam offense seemed erratic. It was the first start for Amherst, the first for the Bantams. No Pinterest casualty was Dorsey Brown. He suffered a precaution in the closing moments of the game.

Brown, WPI Next Week

The team has its second and third games at home on April 27 and 30 against Brown and WPI, respectively. Brown has won 4 of 5 games thus far this season with a 3-0 goal total for the season. WPI will meet the Bantams on Saturday. Last year Trinity won the game for their lone win in the series.

McPhee predicts an uphill year for the Bantams. The schedule this year is formidable, one, but the team has shown much improvement. This year the defense is experienced with All-New England Steve Lazarus leading the goal. The attack has strong potential in Dorsey Brown, Fred Pringle, and Vincent Shimp. Only the midfield lacks depth.

Many Bright Prospects

This year Coach McPhee has many bright prospects from the freshman teams. Tony Starnie, Bill Howland, and Bob Tyndall showed good promise in the Amherst contest. All three are midfielders. Mike Starnie put on a fine performance on defense in the last game ago. Goalee Will Files is one of the better prospects in the past two years.

The probable starter for the Brown game will be Lazarus at goalie. Fred Wagner, Art Gregg and Mike Getlin at defense; Dara Nanes, Dick Connors, and Jim Turner at midfield; and Fred Pringle, Vincent Shimp, and Dorsey Brown at attack.

Dear Dr. Frood: In the past four years, I feel that I have become a wiser and better man. How much do I owe to my college for this?

Dear Grateful: Shall! Somebody must have forgotten to send you the bill.

Dear Dr. Frood: The older generation claims college life is too soft. Just a walk. Well, I am finishing four years, and look! The day I enrolled in college, the photographer at left was taken. At right is a recent photo. What does the older generation have to say about this?

Dear Serious: Just what we’ve said all along: Parties, parties, parties!

Dear Dr. Frood: Yesterday I visited my boy friend and I saw two Lucky Strike boxes in an ash tray. One had lipstick! Was I right in slipping him in the face and leaving the room?

Dear Scared: No. Why get jealous just because other girls smoke the same brand you do?
